For participating in the IDEA StatiCa workshop of 25 November at TU Eindhoven it is important that before you download and install the software, you first obtain a free educational license.

Below is a description of the process.

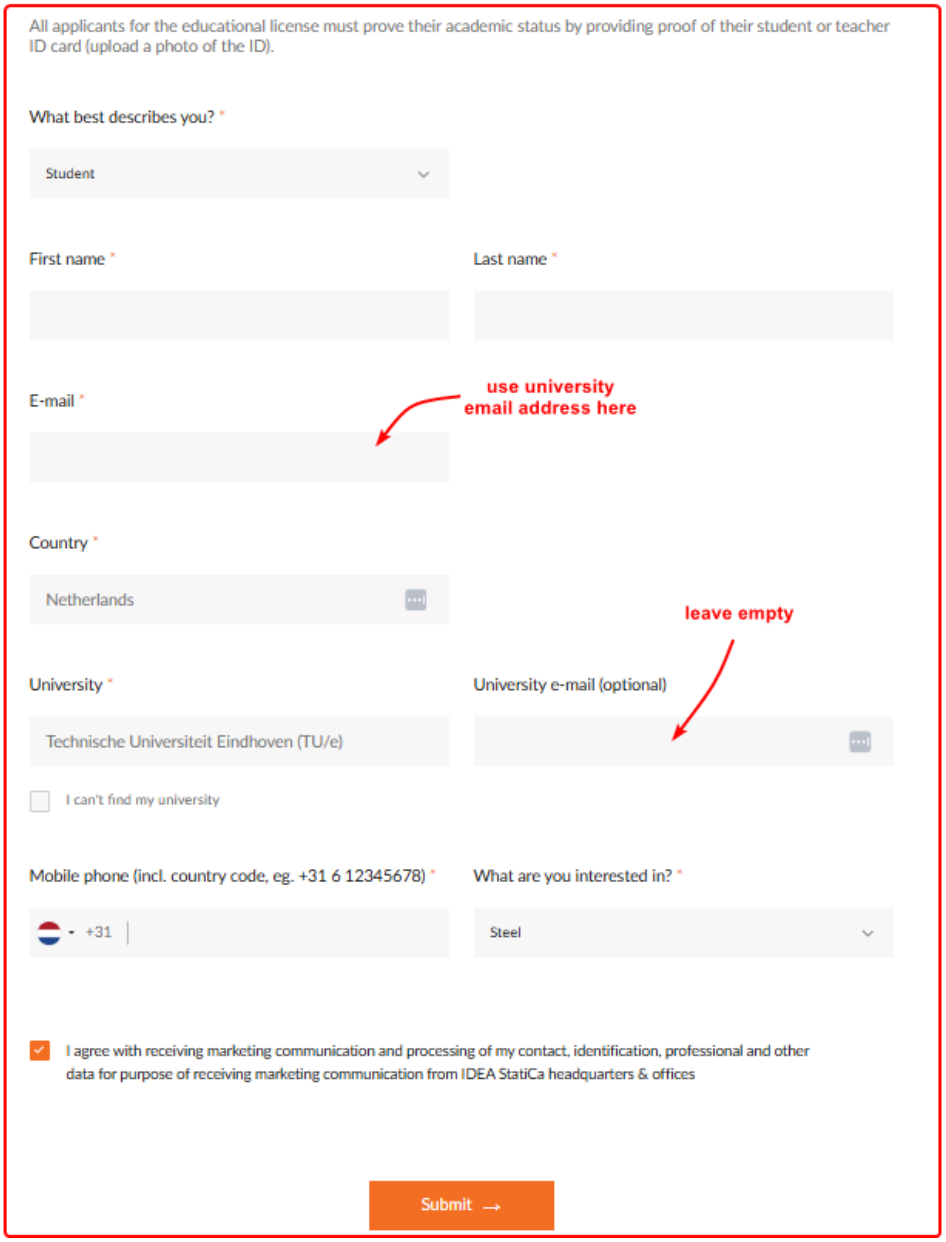

To prevent any license issues during the workshop, we recommend getting the license and installing the software well in advance.

Getting the IDEA StatiCa Educational Licence

Go to:

https://www.ideastatica.com/educational-license

Fill in your details and use your university email address as your main email address, this will later also be used as your account username.

After submitting the form:

- Check your email – we will send you an email with a link, which leads you to a page where you can upload your student ID, it can be a simple picture of your student ID
- Verification of your academic status – Our system will authenticate you and activate your educational license, this should take less than an hour
- Check your email – After the verification is done, we'll send you another email with an activation link, click the link in the email and set your password (note that the password is case sensitive)

Download and install IDEA StatiCa

Go to:

https://www.ideastatica.com/product-downloads and download the latest version of IDEA StatiCa (v26.1). Double click on the installation file and follow the installation process. After the installation process open the program and login with your email address as username and your new password, alle applications should be now accessible, and you can start using the software:

Note that with the educational license activated, all output from the software will contain a watermark.

If you are experiencing any login or installation issues, please send a message to: kris.riemens@ideastatica.com
